The American Psychiatric Publishing Textbook of Geriatric Psychiatry (American Psychiatric Press Textbook/ Geriatric Psychiatry) By David C. Steffens, Dan G. Blazer, Ewald W. Busse

Along with dramatic increases in our elderly population has come a virtual explosion of scientific knowledge about aging and the diseases of late life. This new knowledge, combined with advances in biological psychiatry and neuropsychiatry, has transformed the practice of geriatric psychiatry today. Considered the standard in its field, this Textbook is designed to provide both scholar and clinician with the current state of scientific understanding and the practical skills and knowledge base required for understanding mental disorders in late life. This volume's 54 scholars represent an eclectic mix of distinguished psychiatrists and colleagues from relevant biomedical and behavioral disciplines. Covering both important psychiatric disorders and normal ageing changes, all 32 chapters of this popular compendium have been scientifically reviewed and updated, with seven new chapters that examine the neuropsychological assessment of dementia; movement disorders in the elderly; personality disorders; agitation and suspiciousness; electroconvulsive therapy; working with the family of the older adult; and legal, ethical, and policy issues. Divided into five major parts, the Textbook's topics begin with the basic science of geriatric psychiatry, continue with the diagnostic interview and psychiatric disorders and treatment, and conclude with coverage of legal, ethical, and policy issues and the past and future of geriatric psychiatry. Meticulously indexed, this volume is intended primarily for psychiatrists and other health professionals interested in and committed to older adults. It will also prove valuable in the classroom for students and residentsAand exceptionally valuable to candidates seeking board certification in geriatrics.

Editorial Review

Review
"This is a substantive textbook of geriatric psychiatry, among the best in the field. Clinical topics and cutting edge research issues have been comprehensively addressed. Contributors are leaders in their respective fields. Practitioners and academics will find this book invaluable!" - Anand Kumar, M.D., Professor of Psychiatry, University of California Los Angeles, President-Elect, American Association for Geriatric Psychiatry; "The Textbook of Geriatric Psychiatry is a superb, comprehensive compendium of the current state-of-the-art and science of this increasingly important subspecialty in psychiatry. It is at the same time indispensable to the serious scholar as well as being readable, accessible and pragmatically useful to the clinician. It will be helpful to everyone who has an interest in the geriatric patient." - Lewis L. Judd, M.D., Mary Gilman Marston Professor of Psychiatry, Chair, Department of Psychiatry, University of California School of Medicine, San Diego"
